Who we are

Org4Peace International Helpers are people like you, who felt inspired to help those who are struggling to break the cycle of poverty, vulnerability to abuse, bonded labour and trafficking.

Why education matters

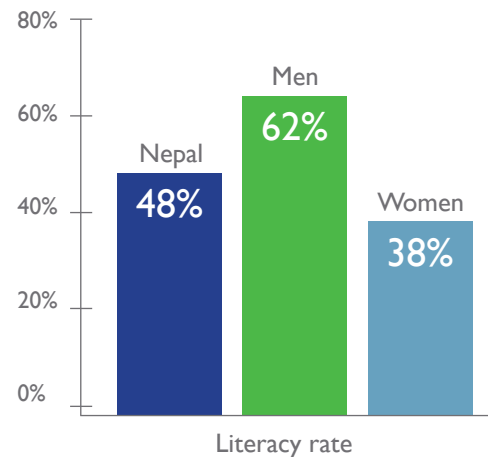

Children of the rural poor, those from single parent families, or orphans have almost no access to education and as a result they do not have many options in life.

The future, especially for girls consists of early marriage, backbreaking labour, lack of medical care, complications in childbirth, unhealthy families, malnutrition and dependence. At the worst, children, women and rural poor families will often fall prey to exploitation and violence, debt bondage, slavery, and trafficking.

With education, children have a future with options. Their future can include literacy, delayed marriage, skills development, empowerment, self-worth, better healthcare, better nutrition and self-sufficiency.

Educational reality in Nepal

Development is impaired by the high level of illiteracy, which perpetuates the cycle of poverty in developing countries.

Nepal is one of the poorest countries in Asia with the rural areas being the poorest. The average wage for rural populations is less than a $1 a day.

Illiteracy and its connection to child trafficking

Due to widespread illiteracy, poverty and a lack of development in rural areas, child traffickers have filled the streets of Kathmandu with children kept in dismal conditions, who are sold as servants, trafficked for sex work, or simply lost. Tragically, many of these children never see their families again, and many do not survive.

Each year more children are trafficked to the capital, or to other countries such as India.

Community solutions

By focusing on education, development and prevention, we can change the future for these children. They can grow up and out of poverty and they can have choices in their lives. Education is the best way to fight against enslavement, trafficking and exploitation.

We see it happen every day.

Schools helping schools. Kids helping kids.

How you and your students can help.

Start a fundraising club at your school

Teachers and students can get involved to raise funds through plays, coin drives, car washes, selling candy canes, bake sales, lemonade sales, pledges – the ideas are endless! Tell us how your class wants to participate to help children in Nepal get an education.

Write letters to children in Nepal

Write to a class of students in Nepal. Once you have written the letters, you can send them to our office and we will forward your mail to the school. Once they receive the letters, we will take photos of the children reading your letters, and send them to your class via email or mail. The students in Nepal will write you back or will create a thank-you placard for you and your students.

one+one

Sponsor a student: 1+1 child educational sponsorship program

When you sponsor a child, you actually sponsor two. This is because we pair the needs of two children. The first child, who is already at the school attending for free, receives books and more supplies. The second child, who is usually on a waiting list, is then admitted into the school and receives supplies, a uniform and books. When needed, some children will receive a uniform and a daily lunch. With the 1 + 1 Program, we meet the needs of rural children going to school. org4peace.org/sponsor

Sponsor a teacher

Hiring teachers is a large part of providing rural children with an education. By donating towards the salaries of trained and experienced teachers, you give children a higher level of education.

Sponsor a family

With livestock and education, a rural family can have better nutrition and an income:

1 goat, pig or chickens & training for a family = $70 CAD/USD or €55

2 goats, pigs or chickens & training for 2 families = $140 CAD/USD or €110

Livestock, 1 child sponsorship, 2 winter jackets & 2 pairs of shoes = $395 CAD/USD or €305

Help us buy a school bus

Many of our school children travel hours to get to school. Others live too far to go to school at all. A bus will pick up those who now walk for miles, and will open up the school to more children who have never had the ability to attend, due to economic and distance factors. A bus is also a great way to take children on field trips.

Donate laptops

Through donations, we have set up a computer lab for the school children and to help train adults in much-needed computer skills. By donating new or used laptops we can make more computers available to more people.
